“ Brad I can't believe this is my last words to you. Your true passion and thoughts only came through seldomly. You reserved so much until you found the right moment to share your true self to someone. I am seeking the moment I hear your next words to me. I'm sorry I didnt follow through and make sure you knew I was invested far beyond our work relationship. I hope the heavens treat you well and you do work preparing room. You're a true soldier in his kingdom and I reserve a seat next to you when my time comes. I look forward to the day we meet again. Much love to you then and now. You are in our hearts forever.
