“ Our Thoughts and prayers are with you in this time of losing loved ones.

Bill was my cousin growing up together and spending a lot of time together as kids. We always called him Bill and don't remember anyone ever calling him by his given name of Billy. I stayed with Bill and his family my freshman year of high school in Oberlin. I am sure many of the things we did as kids were never passed on to others. We would be classified as terrorists today as we made our own gunpowder but only to blow up ant hills and prairie dog holes. Back then one could get the ingredients from the local drug store. He was a whiz at electronics and radios and would scavenge parts from old radios to build his own while in high school. He loved his first job at the airport where he learned to fly in an old Piper J-3 Cub. I can still see the airplane bouncing across the terraces at our farm when he landed it to come and visit us in the country. (Several times) I always wondered if the airport owner knew he was visiting us but never asked Bill. He was always the special cousin in the family as we shared so many interests.

Rest in peace Bill.

“ Bill was always an interesting older cousin. He never failed to have an inspiration that invariably led to trouble for him, whether it was flying an airplane under the power lines or rolling his car on a gravel road, both occurring on his way to visit us on the farm. And of course, he always had a "brainstorm" that preceded his coming up with an idea for an invention or adventure. You have my sympathy and prayers for the loss of both Bill and Linda.
