“ I first met Candace at Marina Bay while we were both walking on treadmills. I was new there not knowing many people and Candace was so welcoming. I immediately knew we would become good friends. We abandoned the treadmills and started going on long daily walks. I loved those walks as I got to know Candace in depth.... her warmth, intelligence, empathy and sense of humor.

When she became ill these traits never left her. She always kept focused on the positive so I will also. She is at peace now.

My deepest condolences to Ahmed who was so very devoted to her and to the rest of her family.

“ I was so fortunate to meet Candace and get to know her for just a little while when I recently moved to the Marina Bay Club. Right away, her smile and warmth made me feel like I made a wonderful friend. Just before she became ill, she offered to take me to one of her favorite stores to purchase middle eastern spices since she knew I needed to make one of my favorite Lebanese recipes. We never made it there, but I was so looking forward to spending a lovely afternoon with her. I will remember her with such fondness. My sympathy goes out to her entire family during this very sorrowful time.

“ The first time I met Candy was at a women's luncheon and I was so blessed to share a table with her. The first thing I noticed was of course her amazing smile and grace! Many women who are as beautiful as she was have a bit of arrogance, but she had more grace and love of people than I would have imagined! She was very warm and had a way to make everyone at the table feel special! After that first meeting she never forgot my name and I felt blessed to be around her! She was indeed a Lady in the truest sense of the word. She shared with me one evening that her husband was very ill. I realized how difficult it was for her to even share that. But I saw a women with great courage and strength. Our daughters Kristy and Yvonne went to school together so we shared how proud we were of them! I know many are going to miss her big smile and the love she gave so freely. Rest in peace dear sweet Lady! You were loved by many and your memory will linger in all who were blessed enough to have known you.

“Candy and her family lived around the corner from me in Rosedale, Queens, New York. She would come to my house and ring the bell and we would walk to school together. Her and her sisters and parents were lovely people. I remember that left Rosedale and moved to Hawaii. I cannot believe she lived in Naples, Florida, I own a condo there. My aunt recently died in Joanne's House. My condolences to her family.
