“ I have no words that will quell the loss in our hearts. Elise-Ann-Punkin-Brunda was my friend and my cousin, and I miss her dearly.

My childhood friend, more of a sister than a cousin, Elise was and will always be the best part of growing up in the same neighborhood as family.

I remember our European vacation... soo much fun and mischief in Ireland, and I'm happy to have shared many memories...

We were best friends until Elise went off to college and moved to Atlantic City. Time kept us apart, but, the love never dissipated.

I loved going to see Elise, playing with a dollhouse nearly as tall as us, playing with the dogs (German Shorthair Pointers) in the yard, and always having fun.

I remember asking for Dog Bones and eating them ourselves while Cookie and Jesse looked on as we devoured their treats.

I remember dressing the poor dogs and painting their toenails while they looked upon our foolishness as humans.

Sometimes too much fun, and we always got caught with the exception of our tour of Europe -- we had a blast in Ireland with a pack of young boys walked us back to our hotel and didn't exactly go away... poor Elise trying to shoo them away through a bathroom window (the boys were tossing rocks at to get our attention -- It worked).

I remember going fishing with Grandpa, who made us row the boat, and not wanting to touch the flapping fish he caught.

I'll never forget the night Elise, Lisa and I shared in Naples Florida -- such a wonderful night out barhopping because as soon as we got somewhere the bands were just leaving. One in particular remains my favorite singing Happy Trails by VanHalen together...

*Mmmnnnnmmmmmm dup dup mmmnnnnmmmmmm
Bom-ba-dee-da-Bom-ba-dee-da
Happy Trails to you,
Until we meet again,
Happy trails to you,
Keep smiling on til then
Who (Oooh) cares about the clouds when we're together
Just (Aaah) sing a song an' think bout sunny weather
...two...three
Happy Trails to you,
Til we meet again*

When Grandpa died, Elise was such a source of comfort and understanding, it made that time easier to bear. We got each other through it with happy memories, just like I'm trying to do the same with you.

I love you Punkin! You are truly missed!

Till we meet again Elise...

I love you Aunt Rose and cousin Robbie, and if there is anything I can do, please let me help get through this major loss in our hearts.

“ I knew Elise many years ago in her Atlantic City days. She could always brighten the room with her smirk and smile. I am very sorry for your loss and will be sending plenty of prayers.
