“ Dear Dorothy, Jeanette, Robert, Richard and extended family,

I am deeply saddened to hear of Issa's passing, and wish to extend my most heartfelt sympathy to all of his loved ones. As a close friend, I can say unequivocally that Issa was special in so many ways. First and foremost, he had a passionate love for family. It's quite clear that he adored his close friends, kissing one's cheek when getting together, always with a cheery, funny greeting. He was witty, humorous, extremely personable, and very intelligent. I worked with him on many projects in government and private industry, and found his computer acumen to be unmatched in the era. He had great analytical skills, and in his programming days, coded with blazing speed and accuracy. He was an exceptional project coordinator, and was highly respected by all who knew him professionally. I will never forget him and will cherish forever the times we spent together socially and professionally over a period of 57 years. I pray now that he is at peace.

May God bless and comfort you during this difficult time. My thoughts and prayers are with you.

With fond remembrances,

Jack Arnold

“ Issa was a mentor to me when I first started working at Advanced Computer Techniques. When we would travel, he said remember how much money is in your wallet when you start and when you return. Make sure you account for all of it so the company pays you. Issa also taught me a lot about making software work. He was a generous person with his knowledge and enjoyed a good time. i caught up with him this past year via email and enjoyed remembering the good times we had at ACT.
