“ James was one of a kind. His mind was always looking for a challenge. We shared an office cube for awhile. I remember more than once I would comment "Its seems very quiet in here today" His response would be "It was." It took some time to get his humor but he was really funny. We had some good laughs. I like to think we were friends. We had some good conversations and shared political views. Our manager had a desk along the route to the cafeteria. James and I sometimes would be walking together to get lunch. We called the area near our manager The Gauntlet. He would see someone walk by and start a conversation. We only wanted to beat the line in the cafeteria. One day on our way thru the Gauntlet I started slowing down so James got ahead of me. He realized just in time and slowed quickly then proceeded to push me ahead of him. We were laughing hysterically. That's my best memory. Last week I was using our timecard software that James created. I clicked a week into the future and noticed a message appear. It said "Time Continuum Error, future entries not allowed." Another example of his humor. We didn't hear much about James after retirement. I knew he was in Florida and probably playing golf and enjoying life on his terms. I was very saddened to hear he passed away. Rest in peace my friend. You will not be forgotten.
