“ Although Joe was iconic at the May Co, I only had one personal interaction with him and I have never forgotten it. He was leading an installation at one of our Divisions. I was a newbie & he took me under his wing like a proud Uncle. He not only shared his vision but shared his sense of humor. It was a wonderful insightful day for me and my career. Additionally, at one point a fragrance vendor threw a tantrum. Joe was not involved but was in earshot and swooped in and rescued me like a knight :). No doubt a very special man! RIP, Mr. Consolo.

“ Joe was larger than life and was an integral force in the career I have today ever since he brought me into May Co./Hechts. I met Joe in Bambergers. After many years of him telling me to call him, I did. Memories of the Trim a tree prototypes in St. Louis, Board of Directors mtgs in Short Pump, numerous store openings in NC, remodels in Nashville, dinners at Morton's with “the boys”. I was on the Capital Beltway on 9/11 heading to a meeting that Joe was flying in for- needless to say his plane was grounded and he managed to find a rental car to drive back to St.Louis. Joe reminded me of my dad- an Italian, foodie, gift of gab guy who loved his family more than life.

I am very saddened by this news. God Bless You Geri, Tiffany and grandchildren. The visual/ retail world has lost a legend...

I worked with Joe when he worked for me in bambergers Paramus as my visual . He brightened up my day. When I went to sell to may company I saw someone strutting along the street that didn't fit the mo of a Midwesterner and yelled out on the street to find out it was joe and it brought a smile to my face. As irony would have it yesterday February 19 I went to see the furniture people in Macys and bryon Phillips told me the sad news. What sad news he brightened e erupted day . I am sorry and I convey my deepest sympathies . He will be missed. Fondly. Rita Karmiol
