“ I will share a memory of when Joshua was about 3 years old, we had said our prayers and I had put him to bed and he looked up at me and said, Grandma; I am scared! I kissed him and told him he did not have to be scared, Jesus was with him. He looked around the room and then asked if I could tell Jesus to go in the living room: I laughed and explained that Jesus would look after him always. Joshua will never know how much I prayed for him and how much I loved him every day of my life! I was waiting until he was older and read to have the relationship, I can only dream about now. I know that he is with Jesus and he is safe. The hole in my heart will never heal!! Joshua, I loved you with all my heart. Grandma Sherry

“ Josh: You will be missed and I pray you will find peace with the Lord. You were a sweet child and grew in to a handsome young man.
I am so sad that you just couldn't find your way in this world. Your life was ahead of you. Your Dad will look after you now.
Your sweet grandmother took such good care of you when you were a child. My heart is sorrowful for her loss.
You asked me long ago, what you should call me, and I said, "Aunt Jo", so that's what you would call me.
Your sweet Aunt Darlene is my daughter-in-law and my heart hurts for her grief in losing you.
Just know now that you were loved more than you realized.
Rest in God's love and peace.

“ CHILD OF MY HEART...I Love You ❤️

I put myself to the task of gathering and locking all your memories in the deepest recesses of my heart and mind, so that I can take them out one at a time and hold you forever close.

I think about the start of "us", when you were this little boy with big blue eyes filled with wonder and a smile to melt ones heart, that I carried on my hip and we were off and running, to this handsome young man that you grew into and the many lives you touched.

I remember with fondness our many adventures through scouting, sports, your love of running track and how you excelled in school. I think of your ready smiles and generosity of heart, and I think of times of loneliness you could not always shake, even in a room full of family and friends, of how helpless I felt to set your world right, to protect you from the darkness.

I smile and think of the 3 hats you gave me the honor of wearing...Grandma being the most important one, Mom when you felt the need to feel like all your friends and Ms Lee when you were with me at work.

I think about the many talks we shared, there was never a subject we could not and did not talk about, even when at times we didn't always agree.

Josh, I don't know how to fill this huge you left behind in my heart. I will try daily to cling to the happy memories, to find solace in knowing that you are back with your dad, little did I know I would have to give you back so soon, and I will quietly tuck your poem "BEAUTY IS" into the very core of my heart and soul, slip a copy into your pocket so you will always carry it with you and know the Beauty I always Saw and Lobed in You.

You are and always will be the CHILD OF MY HEART...I Love You Josh.
