“ Lisa loved life. As a teenager she loved to be social and have parties with her friends or family. She was always patient and liked to talk. As teenagers we traded clothes and started our journey to adulthood with dating and responsibilities. She loved to have the radio on and call in for requests or prizes. One weekend while staying over she secretly pierced my ears and did a good job too! I hope others will share stories that her children may enjoy. Love and peace to all. Debora Prah Smith.
