“ In loving memory of one of the best friends I ever had, who I lived through the wildest times of my 20s with. He had a heart bigger than Texas and a smile and personality bigger than earth. God rest his soul. One of my biggest regrets in life is that I wasn't there for him when he went out. I wish I would've known. He knows if I would've known I would've been there right till the end. I always have and always will !!!!! REST IN PEACE MY BROTHER REST IN PEACE MY FRIEND ONE DAY I WILL BE BACK WE WILL BE BACK TOGETHER AND WE WILL RIDE AGAIN.

“ Good morning my son. Was it but a week ago that you went to join the Angels? I miss you and as I sit here thinking about you in the early morning hours, before the house stirs, I reflect on the strength and courage you carried throughout your short battle with cancer and how you passed that strength and courage on to us that were so blessed to be able to walk along side you in your final journey, how you showed us how to face adversity and always maintain dignity, to continue to share your smile, laughter and always that Goldberg humor. It was such a tribute to you as a son, husband, father, friend and co-worker that was evident in all the love surrounding you everyday.

You will always travel in my heart my son and I will take comfort in seeing your legacy reflected in your two wonderful, handsome sons Josh and Dylan, thru them you will walk with each one of us everyday. How blessed I was to walk along side you through your final journey, what a wonderful gift that was, thank you. I lock you safely in my heart until we meet in heaven...until then...Love Mom.
