“ I echo what so many have said; caring, kind, supportive, and witty with a great sense of humor. I will surely miss him, but am so very grateful that I had the chance to call him my friend.

“ I met Steven a few years back at Publix as a customer.. and I don't know how we connected but over the years he always remembered me and I always remembered him and I would just wait being in a long line just to talk to him so he can make me laugh.. and it's time went by I struggle with some stuff on my own but he was always comforting and making me smile and always said I you know I'm going to see you tomorrow and I always said yes you know you well LOL but recently over the last few months I asked about him and no one knew any information and then this evening something had me come to Publix to get a few things and I asked about him and I found out the sadness.. I started tearing up and I know a lot of workers at Publix and I guess it was a sign from Jesus for me to show up tonight.. and I got information that they were having a funeral tomorrow and yes from believer of Jesus and God and it was meant for me to be there tonight to get this information but more importantly I'm sending prayers to the family of Steven and pray nothing but blessings to you and your family for comfort love and hugs

“ Sorry to hear of the loss of Steven, condolences to the Funston family. I am an old friend of Steven; we met in San Diego in 1989. We lost contact over the years and reconnected almost 3 years ago when I had 2 strokes, he always found a way to make me smile and always checked up on me. I did the same to him when he told me he was sick. Steven will be truly missed.
