“ I met Steve in 1969 at Fort Carson, CO. The connection was that we had both just arrived there and we were both from Milwaukee. Same age. Same unit. Both truck drivers in the motor pool. We hit it off right away. along with several other really good guys. Steve was one of the few who had a car and we spent a lot of time in Colorado Springs. He and I returned to Milwaukee in that car on leave and then returned to the fort once the leave ended. We both got orders to Vietnam, although he shipped out 1 day before me. Thankfully we were both selected to remain at the giant Long Binh post rather than be shipped out to other much more dangerous areas. We were able to reconnect on the post. We arranged to go to Sydney Australia together on R&R, where we roomed together. There were many memorable experiences. By the time we returned to Vietnam we were short-timers. He left Vietnam for home 1 day before me. I saw him several times-once at Balistreri's on 68th St-but we never really reconnected, much to my regret. He was a real, genuine human being and I value the friendship we had.

John, I was missing my Honey today and went into this for some reason. I just saw your post today (9/8). I met Steven after Vietnam, so this was a wonderful memory that I never knew about, you and Steve going to Australia together and enjoying R & R. He did speak fondly of his time "down under". Thank you for your kind words. I can't believe next Sunday will be 5 months that he's gone. I miss him every single day. Blessings and thanks for taking the time to share your remembrance, Carolyn.

“It was in the summer of 1962 that I first met Steve Mijokovic, along with his brothers Mike and Phil at the Whitnall Park golf course. The Mijokovic's were all outstanding golfers with Steve being the most articulate of the three. We often played together after that as they matured into pillars of the community. Now, only Phil remains to carry on the Mijokovic traditions, but Steve, and brother Mike, will long be remembered as wonderful human beings, contributing much to the history and traditions of the Whitnall Park Men's Golf Club. Thanks for the memories.

“ I had gotten to know Steve and Carolyn thanks to our mutual love of the Doobie Brothers. My daughter and I were fortunate to meet such a great couple backstage at two concerts. Two wonderful people. We will miss you, Steve.
